The descendants of Samuel Morgan originate in larger Gloucester County which over the years shrank to what it is today. The descriptions by early historians what the first settlers found here are magnificent and startling. From Raccoon Creek to "Makles" Creek, now known as Mantua Creek-- which is the land in this precise area--we are told that tobacco grew luxuriously. There were great quantities of walnuts, chestnuts, peaches, cypresses, mulberries, fish trees, and many other rare trees. John Fenwick left England in 1675 before the division of East and West Jersey occurred, sailing on the ship Griffith with a group of Quakers who settled at Salem Co. . William Penn did not leave England until seven years later.

In 1677 and 1678 five other vessels with 800 emigrants, mostly Quakers, arrived. A large number disembarked at Raccoon Creek near Swedesboro and others proceeded farther north and settled at Burlington, originally called Beverly, then Budlington, and finally Burlington. Friends Meetings were held in Burlington in 1677 in tents. A Quaker Meeting House was built in Salem in 1680, and in Burlington in 1682. At this point proprietary interests in West Jersey were to a large extent in Quaker hands.

The type of government which developed in all of New Jersey was extremely liberal. In fact it was considered later by the Crown of England to be revolutionary. The capital of West Jersey was fixed at Burlington, and an Assembly was convened there in 1681. These early New Jersey colonial governments, asserted, 100 years before the American Revolution, substantially the same principle of sovereignty of the people themselves, which was later set forth in the Declaration of Independence.

Gloucester County for many years extended entirely across the State and included all of Atlantic County and all of Camden County. The territory now in Atlantic County was not separated from Gloucester County until 1837 which was 151 years after the founding of Gloucester County. Camden County was not created until 1844. See-

Camden, Swedesboro, Evesham Mount, Mount Holly, Woodbury, and Salem are just a few of the South Jersey towns that were stops on the Underground Railroad in the 1860s. On their way to freedom, slaves passed through these towns on their way from Philadelphia to New York.

New Jersey was intimately associated with Philadelphia and the adjoining section in the underground system, and afforded at least three important outlets for runaways from the territory west of the Delaware River. Our knowledge of these outlets is derived solely from the testimony of the Rev. Thomas Clement Oliver, who, like his father, traveled the New Jersey routes many times as a guide and conductor.

The third route was called, from its initial station, the Greenwich line. This station is vividly described as having been made up of a circle of Quaker residences enclosing a swampy place that swarmed with blacks. One may surmise that it made a model station. Slaves were transported at night across the Delaware River from the vicinity of Dover, in boats marked by a yellow light hung below a blue one, and were met some distance out from the Jersey shore by boats showing the same lights. Landed at Greenwich, the fugitives were conducted north twenty-five miles to Swedesboro, and thence about the same distance to Evesham Mount. From this point they were taken to Mount Holly, and so into the northern or Philadelphia route.

This is version 7 of George Morgan Descendants. This month I have added information from death certificates from NJ archives which was obtained for me by Eugene Wills of NJ. Please destroy the Word doc from last month, as you promised to do upon receiving this new one. As I do have corrections as usual. This is not an all inclusive work. There are many names who are not here and additions and corrections are most welcome. There are probably hundreds of Morgans whose names have been forgotten and I delight to find new ones which can find a place here.

This paper started with a basic small outline from Leslie Karpolorich which I found on the internet. I try to support the information and I add children thru census material and other data. When evidence indicates otherwise, I state it.

<http://familytreemaker.genealogy.com/users/k/a/r/Leslie-M-Karpolorich/GENE10-0001.html?Welcome=1076235097>

My paper has become 10 times the original size by adding historical information, census data-especially from 1880, names of other children, will information, emails with Bible information, marriage data from Gloucester Historical Society, internet sites and my own comments. Some of the descendancy is incorrect and I say so, but leave it in. A group of Morgans I have added to the 3rd generation, but I am not sure of the parentage. That is Philip and Abigail Morgan and their possible children.

This is a paper I am working on and is by no means without mistakes. Sometimes I make stupid mistakes, so do not be afraid to write me. If you have other information, please inform me. I have added my own Morgans at the bottom without knowing where or if they fit in to the George Morgan descendancy, but my great grandfather was called (Sidney) George Morgan and according to my great Anna Franklin Morgan, was related to Captain George C. Morgan of Mantua-maybe a cousin in some way.

Last month I corrected Peter Morgan (he had only one marriage, not two), due to an email from a descendant of Peter Jessup Morgan whose parentage I do not know at this time. I read once that a wagon train of Morgan related families left PA/NJ in 1837 and headed west. His son Thomas Cheesman Morgan was born in Millville, Gloucester, NJ 8 March 1837, so the wagon train must have left after that date. His younger brothers and sisters are born after that between Illinois and Iowa, and Peter Jessup Morgan himself dies in Nebraska. Some of his children die in Oregon. The LDS info for this family is near the end of this paper.

He married AMY CHEW December 13, 1757 in Philadelphia, Pa.. She was born 1724 , and died July 31, 1789 in Glou. Co., N.J..

Quite a few members of this family left for the west on the wagon train which left during the year called the Panic of 1837. The rendezvous point for Philadelphians and Gloucester Morgan-related families was west of Harrisburg in the spring.. A wagon from the Army Medical depot at Philadelphia went to Harrisburg to join the train.. The first starting point had been Long Island but the Rendezvous point for people coming from the South was Independence, Missouri. On the way to Independence, the train went thru Wheeling, West VA and Cincinnati, Ohio, following the Ohio River. The promise if you joined the wagon train was 200 acres of land in Oregon, papers to be signed at Independence. The offer was enlarged to 600 acres because the government felt with the original offer of 200 acres, speculators had been weeded out by not offering 600 publically. Some of the wagon families had gotten off and bought land which suited them along the way though and never found out about the 600 acre offer.

6. JONATHAN³ MORGAN (*GEORGE*², *GEORGE*¹) was born 1765 in Egg Harbor Rd., Glou. Co., N.J., and died abt.1840 Braysville Ceme, Near New Trenton, In. He married MARGARET OTTO May 07, 1796 in Swedes Church, Swedesboro, Glouc. Co.. N.J.. She was born August 05, 1772, and (died Braysville Ceme, Near New Trenton, In). His brother Isaac married Mary Otto at the same time. Bödo Otto Jr., was surgeon in the Continental Army.

I think some of this family went to Indiana after 8 March 1837 (after Thomas Cheeseman Morgan, was born in Millville, Gloucester, son of Peter Jessup Morgan, born 10 May 1800, who went west with wife Hannah Jane Cheesman, b. 25 Dec 1812) and before 1840. Margaret Otto as well as Maria, her stepchild, went with the Morgans west. Bodo and Peter stayed in NJ. I believe I read that around 1837 30 Morgan families from NJ and PA made a wagon train thru Ohio and on to Indiana and points southward. Margaret's father was Frederick Christopher OTTO

Susan,

I have to admit, I found your e-mail a bit confusing, but that's okay. I've been working on my Morgan family for a little over 25 years now. Only recently did I make a breakthrough, partly with the discovery of some new information that my mother, who died in 1987, had written down back in high school about her family and it ended up with my aunt's family. My great-grandmother was Alice Belle Morgan, daughter of John and Catherine (Hahn) Morgan. I found a family bible which listed John's parents as George and Patience Morgan. The newly uncovered information from my mom had John's full name as John Otto Morgan. I am pasting a copy of what I wrote in my research notes to remind me how I determined John's ancestry:

This is how I determined that John Otto Morgan was the son of George W. and Patience (Eacrit) Morgan, and that George W. Morgan was the son of Jonathan and Margaret (Otto) Morgan.

The following comment appears in John and Catherine (Hahn) Morgan's family bible: "Died on the 17th of February 1887, John Morgan, son of George and Patience Morgan. Aged 66 years, seven months and 25 days." This put his birth date at 22 June 1820.

I then went to the 1820 New Jersey census index and found that there were only two George Morgans living in New Jersey that year. Contacting historical societies for both counties, I found that the George Morgan from Gloucester County had married a Patience Eacrit. This George Morgan was living near a Bodo Morgan. With the help of a cousin I discovered over the internet, I found both a George Washington and a Bodo Morgan baptized at the Trinity Episcopal Church in Swedesboro, Gloucester County, New Jersey, with Jonathan and Margaret Morgan as their parents. Also in church records, I found a Jonathan Morgan marrying a Margaret Otto in 1796. According to research by the Otto Family Association, Margaret was the brother of Bodo Otto, Revolutionary War doctor. This would explain John Morgan's middle name (Otto) and his uncle having been named Bodo.

Okay, that's how I figured things out. I have since found a book titled, A History of The Family of Morgan, From The Year 1089 to Present Times by James Appleton Morgan, that has Jonathan Morgan in it and traces his family back to the 16th century. Mind you, I am a very cautious genealogist. I have to make sure my information is well-documented before I add it to my family tree. I am currently looking for a source to back up what the book says, although it does seem to be well researched. According to the book, Jonathan's father George was the brother of Sarah Morgan, Daniel Boone's mother.

I hope you have found this information useful. I'm not sure if I could add more to this or not, but now is not a good time for me. Some other things are preoccupying my brain.

As far as I can tell he is George C. Morgan who appears as "captain of a vessel" in 1870 and although the death certificate says his parent is William, he appears in the 1850 census in the house of George W. Morgan in Carpenter's Landing-Mantua. I think that there is the possibility that George W. was George William and they called him William.

1692, boundary set with Burlington county and repealed in 1693

1694, formed in West Jersey with Egg Harbor from Cape May County

Clayton was a village and part of Greenwich Twsp which became Franklin Twsp which became Clayton Twsp. JACOB FISLER bought 3000 acres in 1780 I think near Clayton Village cemetery and was the founder of the Clayton area as it is today. I have listed Greenwich-Franklin-Clayton Twshps. and a couple other townships nearby, all in Gloucester.

Township of Elk -Settled by 1791.

(comprised of several small settlements namely : Aura, Ferrell, Hardingville, Lawns, Lake Garrison, Lake Gilman, Lakeview Park, Clayton Park, and parts of Ewan & Clayton. It was separated from Franklin, Harrison, Clayton, and Woolwich Townships on April 17, 1891. Previous name Shoestring Township.

1710, boundaries redefined

Township of Franklin

On January 27, 1820 a 72,000 acre collection of small villages, previously part of Woolwich and Greenwich Townships, was incorporated into a new municipality - the Township of Franklin. At that time Glassboro, Clayton, Newfield and Elk were a part of this tract.

1837, part of Gloucester forms Atlantic County; 1844, part made into Camden County; 1871, Monroe twp. and bulk of Washington twp. from Camden County; 1892, part of Landis twps., Cumberland County taken and returned in 1897; 1926, part of Washington twp. to Camden County with some more going in 1931; 1938, boundary clarified with Atlantic County; 1950, some to Camden County.

Adam Morgan (1797 or 98 NJ) related to Adam Morgan who is in Gloucester tax lists from 1777 to 1797. An Adam Morgan joined the Revolutionary forces from Morris County in 1776 and got out 6 months later.

Information from Gloucester Historical Society:

Deed Nathan Thomas, et ux., dtd 5 Aug 1819 Bk. EE p. 481 to Elisha Chew 5 Aug 1819. Land adjoining ADAM MORGAN's land; and which land Nathan Thomas purchased of JOHN MORGAN & SARAH, his wife by deed 26 March 1817 Bk. Z, p. 416- Doughten papers Glou. Co. Clerk's office. Book: Notes of Old Gloucester County, Vol. 2, p. 7:

The Sign of the Golden Sheaf (of wheat they mean) tavern was situated in the angle formed by the junction of the Salem and Sculltown (Auburn) roads at Swedesboro. Adam Morgan operated it in 1821. In his application for a license he stated the house had been built as a tavern and always used as such. The compiler has had many good meals at the "Sign of the Golden Sheaf," and has often inquired about its registry books but like nearly everything else, excepting the church and graveyard of Trinity Church, there is but little historical information obtainable since the death of our honored and respected Quaker friend, Capt. Chas. D. Lippincott.

An Adam Morgan born in Greenwich Twp.-Glassboro died Sept 1905 (or 1908- cannot read it) in Reynoldsville, Pa. (could be a son of Adam Morgan- the one I am missing from the 1840 census Blockley)

They are buried at Laurel Hill in Philadelphia. Adam Morgan and son-in-law Tubman Moore, and great-granddaughter Louisa Moore Jenkins all being buried in the Greener plot indicates a probable relation to us Morgans.

By 1850 Benjamin has also married- his 1840 next door neighbor Hannah Leach and has moved in with her parents.

East Vincent Township, Chester- near Springville/Spring City where he was listed as a paper maker in 1860. This must have had something to do with the fact that his father in law Ellis Leach had business with a printing factory in England and was in this paper trade. He was a master dyer. His daughter Hannah possessed the formulas and destroyed them before she died.

"DEATH FROM SUFFOCATION - Mr. Benjamin Morgan, of Chester County, rented a few days since the house 2542 Gray's Ferry road which had been recently finished, and on Wednesday came to the city, with his family, to take possession of it. His wife stopped at a friend's house, where she was to remain until all the household goods should arrive, and the deceased, after kindling a fire in the range of the new house, determined to sleep in the room, but unfortunately he turned off the damper in the range, thus forcing the coal gas into the apartment. A police officer entered the house yesterday morning, after being informed that Mr. Morgan had not made his appearance, and found the deceased lying with his faced turned towards the floor, his head resting upon his arms, quite dead. An inquest was held, and a verdict in accordance with above facts rendered." courtesy of James P. Morgan

NEW CHAPTER

How do Abigail Morgan and Philip Morgan fit into this family?

There is a question mark about Philip and his wife Abigail Morgan:

This is the generation which would probably have included Phillip Morgan and his wife Abigail if Philip is descended from George Morgan. They were married before 1796 because there is a death cert. for Christopher Morgan which has Phillip Morgan and his wife Abigail as his parents and he is born 1797. I will include the census information here which I have gathered about an Abigail who is living as a widow in Mullica Hill, Mantua for many years. When I first discovered her she was not indexed and was living next to John M. Morgan with her Morgan name dittoed under his..

The family below is possibly the family my great great aunt Ann Franklin Morgan said were our Morgan relatives transporting goods on the canal boats (probably Durhams) between Trenton and Philadelphia before the Civil War. Christian and sons are listed as “waterman” which must mean working on the water. Carpenter's Landing- now called Mantua, was then a place of active business in cord-wood, lumber, and ship timber, employing many sloops and small vessels in the trade.
<http://www.10crucialdays.org/html/durham.htm>

“These craft were able to travel down the river through its many shallows because when fully loaded, they drew only about 24 inches of water. They were able to travel against the current and through the treacherous rapids up the Delaware River because when partially loaded with a cargo of about 2 tons, they drew only about 3 inches of water

Durham boats played an important part in Washington's Crossing of the Delaware on December 25, 1776. Washington wrote to Governor Livingston of New Jersey, directing him to secure "Boats and Craft, all along the Delaware side... particularly the Durham Boats" for his anticipated crossing. General Washington had, no doubt, observed these stable vessels, painted black, at the docks in Philadelphia and understood that they would be ideal craft to transport troops and supplies for his surprise attack on Trenton.

After the Revolution, these boats continued to haul vast amounts of cargo up and down the Delaware River between Philadelphia and points upriver above Trenton until the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Canal was completed in 1832. Merchants like Mahlon Taylor (of Taylorsville, now Washington Crossing, PA) accumulated wealth hauling upcountry resources down the Delaware River in Durham boats to the prosperous markets in Philadelphia.”

Since Christian has a daughter Abigail and since Christian Jr. is living next to Abigail, I think it is probable that Christian Sr born 1795 is Abigail's son.
Christian Morgan married Sarah Morgan- since they have a son Peter. It could be Peter b.1813 is a brother to Christian. Christian was born 1795. I have no proof that this Abigail's husband was Philip -other than the death cert. of Christopher Morgan.

Since Christian has a daughter Abigail and since Christian Jr. is living next to Abigail, I think it is safe to assume that Christian Sr born 1795 is Abigail's son. And since Christian's first sons are named James, David, Peter, and Samuel, it is probable he had brothers of this name.

"DEATH FROM SUFFOCATION - Mr. Benjamin Morgan, of Chester County, rented a few days since the house 2542 Grays's Ferry road which had been recently finished, and on Wednesday came to the city, with his family, to take possession of it. His wife stopped at a friend's house, where she was to remain until all the household goods should arrive, and the deceased, after kindling a fire in the range of the new house, determined to sleep in the room, but unfortunately he turned off the damper in the range, thus forcing the coal gas into the apartment. A police officer entered the house yesterday morning, after being informed that Mr. Morgan had not made his appearance, and found the deceased lying with his faced turned towards the floor, his head resting upon his arms, quite dead. An inquest was held, and a verdict in accordance with above facts rendered." Phil. newspaper

Adam Morgan and his son in law Robert Walter Burns founded a boot factory in downtown Philadelphia which profited greatly during the Civil War and was worth $30,000 by 1870. Adam's 2 daughters who were milliners (Louisa B. Morgan Moore and Maria B. Morgan Burns) had to join in and help, as well as all members of their families. Even the Pinkertons moved back from their farm in Penn, Sterling, Wayne, Chester Co. to Philadelphia by 1870- probably to help at the factory. Her husband Samuel was left alone on the farm. Benjamin's daughter Alice was listed as a sales lady at the store next to the factory in 1880.

Grandfather Benjamin Morgan left Philadelphia and went to Spring City, Pa. (by 1857 where he is on the tax list that year), where he was an engineer for Springville paper mill. With the Civil War he returned to Philadelphia and became an engineer at Frankford Arsenal (where he worked with Benjamin W. Morgan who is half owner of the cemetery plot at Mt. Moriah Cem. at the hub of the big circle plot 42 98E1/2- in Philadelphia, see cem. Map below. Benjamin W. Morgan 1840: laborer, US Arsenal, no address listed, Benjamin W. Morgan 14 JULY 1860- 6, 7, 9th precincts Philadelphia, Ward 1.; Gray's Ferry Road e Washington Ave, packer, US Arsenal)

After the War grandfather Benjamin decided to open a store for the sale of handmade shoes, possibly the products of his brother in law Robert Walter Burns and his sisters Maria and Louisa. The store was already for opening and Grandfather decided to spend the night in the store before the opening. The store had a coal stove which was lit, but because the damper was not open, he was found dead the next morning near the window and having been asphyxiated by coal gas. Uncle Irvin James Morgan was born 6 months after his father's death.

The Leach family in England were master dyers. Grandmother Leach had the formulas of the dyes but destroyed them all, said aunt Frank and Sidney George Morgan.

Grandmother Hannah Leach was born in Dublin, Ireland while her father and mother were travelling. He went to the cities (probably Manchester and Dublin) and mixed dyes from his formulas for the manufacturers.

Aunt Frank told Laura that the Morgans had canal boats on the old canal between Philadelphia and Trenton at one time. (Before the Civil War?). Ruth Dorothy Morgan told James Taylor III that the Morgans are related to the founder of Morristown, NJ. But did she mean Moorestown?

Mother Jean Gould Morgan's side.

Her mother: Anne McKay – of Bally Tor, Antrim near Bally Meana, Scotch Presbyterian (I think she means Ballintoy? And McCay with a C is the spelling on the birth cert. And the marriage cert.)

Married John Gould/Gold 30 October 1863, Ballintoy, Antrim, Ireland. Anne (pronounced Anna) McKay's sister Jane married John? Steel (a Ballintoy name also) in Philadelphia. Son James Steel died as a young man, around 1899 or 1900.

Daughters: Jean Gould b. 20 November 1864 -0100, Croagh District, Ballintoy, Antrim, Ireland. Katherine Gould b. August 1866 and came "as a babe in arms" on a sailing ship from Ireland according to James Taylor III's notes. She married

1st Unknown Goodman

DAUGHTER Ethel Goodman

Married about 1906 Clarence Watson

Son: Clarence Watson

2nd Joseph Carson

Daughter Josephine

Married John Billingsley on Memorial day in Maryland

Children Jack (John), Joan, Jeffrey

Note: written into the lease of the farm where grandmother Anne McKay Gould lived;

"As long as the grass grows and water flows

This farm shall belong to the McKays."

Grandmother McKay had a brother (brother in law she means?); believe his name was William. He had a daughter Mamie Gould. He married a second time and had sons William and Jay Gould. (According to James Taylor III, John Gould had a brother Hugh Gould. He had a son William and a sister Mary living with him in 1880 in Kensington, near the carpet factory. In 1890 he is listed as a carpet maker in the Philadelphia directory.)

1780 Samuel Tomlinson to Mary Bates.

Peter Jessup Morgan

His descendant says,

“ Hello, my name is Rosanne Empey. I am researching the line of Peter Jessup Morgan, born 1802 in Gloucester, New Jersey. I found your information on the George Morgan line on the Ancestry board. Very interesting! I would like to figure out how my Peter Jessup Morgan figures in, perhaps a cousin. Anyway, I think I can help you correct some information. On your page of genealogy you list a Peter Morgan, (son of Jonathan and Margaret Otto Morgan)" born 1817 in N.J., and died June 15, 1908 in Glassboro, Glouc. Co., N.J.. He married (1) HANNAH H. CHEESEMAN March 12, 1835 in Glouc. Co. N.J.. She was born Unknown, and died Unknown. He married (2) SARAH JANE MOORE November 13, 1841 in Glouc. Co. N.J.. She was born Unknown, and died January 19, 1885 in Woodbury, Glouc. Co., N. J. " My ancestor Peter J. Morgan, (I have no names for his parents at present) married Hannah Jane Cheeseman March 12 1835 in Glouc. Co. N.J. I have the information on this Peter, and Hannah, and their family. Could it be possible, then , that your Peter only married Sarah Jane Moore, and had the family as you record? I have attached a gedcom of my Peter, Hannah, and their family. They moved west in 1836, to Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Oregon. I hope this helps you, and would be glad to hear from you further on this line. Rosanne” krystal_mtn@hotmail.com

hi susan, i found a few things in my notes that i wanted to tell you about. , i have a book on american prisoners of the revolution and it has the names of 800 men taken prisoners by the british in pa. and placed on a boat called the old jersey the dates in the book range from 1773 to 1776 there were 5 morgans in the list they were abel morgan , henry morgan, john morgan, joseph morgan and matthew morgan. it dosent say what happened to any of them some prisoners didnt make it through they died on the ships. i think i read someplace that abel made it out and went home to die. also you said you have a david listed as a son of james and eleanor , i have a david listed as the son of james and jane no b. date but he died in 1694 . the book i mentioned above is one that i saw in the family library it is a hard to find book but i got lucky and found it on the internet. it is a very interesting book it tells all about how all the american prisoners were treated on these boats and churches the punishment was unbelievably cruel. on johnathan morgan . johnathan was my samuels brother and johnathan hill morgan was samuels nephew also daniel morgan was kin to daniel boone by sarah morgan . Her father is said to be john morgan (james brother) . and also in my notes [not proven]kit carson is kin to daniel boone. have you heard any of this? there is also a john hunt morgan [see attached image-susan aldrige] that is believed to be related to daniel morgan . i have books on him also. they say he is a cousin. also there is a nancy hart a heroine of the revolution they seemed to be all tied together in one way or another. i'll write more later , pat terry, i have the same names on my decendents chart i have several more names . i also have a old and rare library book that i ordered on the internet that is the life of John Hunt Morgan written by his brother in law maj. Basil W. Duke. Basil was married to Johns sister Henreitta and was also Johns right man on his raids through kentucky and elsewhere. the book is a old library book the 2 page is stamped murray state college it has a copyright 1960 by indiana university press manufactured in the united states of america library of congress catalog number 60-8607 you have stated . the book was dedicated to the noble women of the south. on pg. 18 chapter 2 states that john hunt morgan was born at huntsville alabama on the first day of june 1825 his father calvin c. morgan was a native of virginia and a distant relative of daniel morgan the rebel general of revolutionary fame. and he goes on. then i have a book on daniel boone by john mack faragher the live and legend of an american pioneer . on pg.27. it says younge Boones namesake , his mothers older brother was a traveling quaker minister. and as he was talking about sarahs older brother he states [quote.] "like his Uncle Daniel Morgan, Boone now guided his family toward the unknown. i also have a Morgan Morgan on my chart comming from William. that first settled in Va. Daniel morgan of Rev. fame decended from this line. i believe very strongly that they are all related James and Jane morgan the first to come over to the new world had a grandson Cadwalder Morgan [i believe this to be Edward] i have read where Cadwalder is a name for Edward. I do intend to study this further and i hope i can find the documents to prove this. Cadwalder may have had brothers that came over with James and Jane. which may have been James Jr. and John, sorry this is so long. i hope it gets to you. Pat

Another line

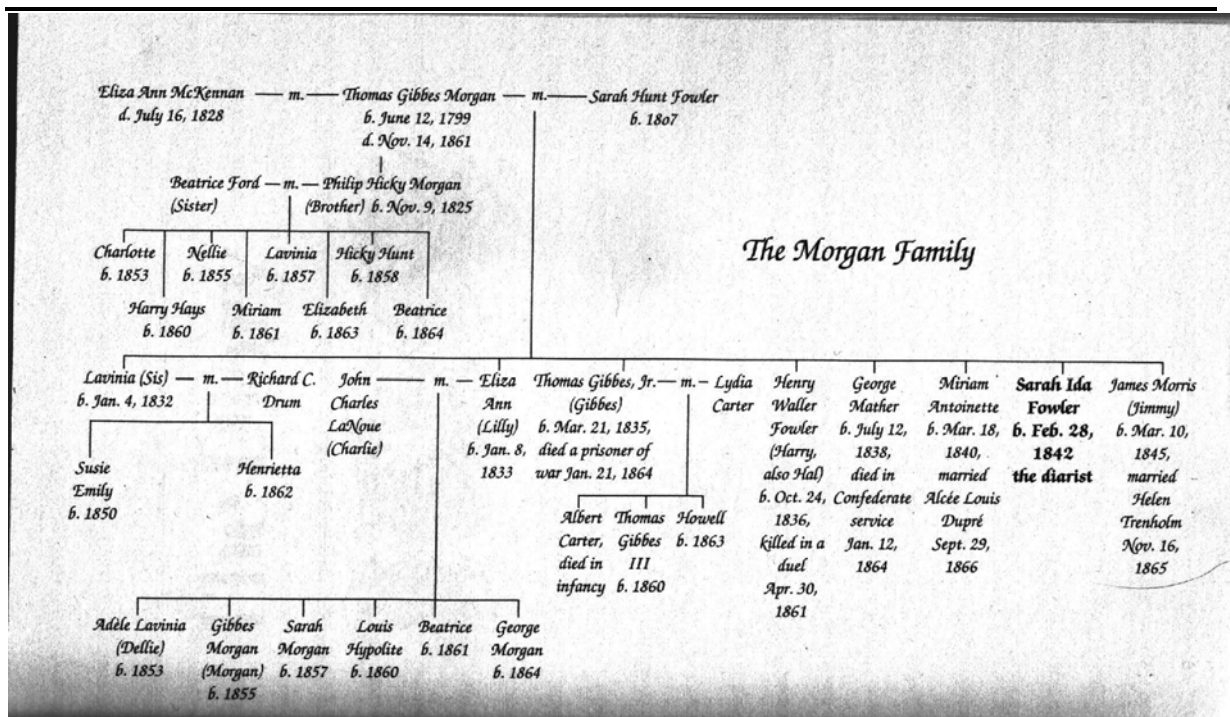

Pat, hopefully I can help with some of the things you are reading about John Hunt morgan, Daniel Boone, etc.

there have been many stories about General Daniel Morgan being related to Daniel Boone, none of which have been proven. I have seen claims that Daniel Morgan was his cousin, his uncle or his nephew. None proven. Daniel boone was the son of Squire Boone and Sarah Morgan. This particular Sarah Morgan was the daughter of Edward Morgan of Gwynedd, PA. This family is well documented and there is no proven connection at this point to Daniel Morgan. There is a gentleman named Stewart Baldwin that is a descendant of this family and has written many papers documenting the lineage. Most of his work is available on the internet if you do a search.

As far as John Hunt Morgan. He was a Confederate general who was born in Huntsville, AL and moved to Lexington, KY as a youth. My gg grandfather claimed to be his second cousin, although, again there is no proof. John Hunt Morgan was also reported to be a lineal descendant of General Daniel Morgan, again no proof. John Hunt Morgan's line is as follows:

William Morgan b. 1556 m. Cwladis Morgan b.1558
William Morgan b. 1585 d. 1648 m. Elizabeth Morgan
James B. Morgan b. 1601 d. 1685 m. Margery Hill
Capt. James Morgan b. 1645 d. 1710/11 m. Rachel Deming
James Morgan b.1680 d.1721 m. Bridgett ?
James Morgan Jr. b.1707 m. Mary Averill
Samuel Morgan b.1728 d.1815 m. Rachel Kibbe
Gideon Morgan b.1751 d.1830 m. Patience Cogswell b.1754
Luther Morgan b.1776 m. Anna Cameron Dodd b. 1779
Calvin Cogswell Morgan m. Henrietta Hunt
General John Hunt Morgan

Hope this helps.
Terry Morgan
